

VITRUVIAN TRIATHLON 2003

Rutland Water, Leicestershire is easily found from either the north or the south of the country and is located only nine miles west from the junction of the A1 and A606. The Vitruvian is based on the North Shore of Anglian Water's Rutland Water site. Situated two miles west of Oakham and only half an hour drive from Peterborough and Grantham and forty five minutes from Leicester, but despite being close to a number of major towns the Vitruvian course by contrast offers the opportunity to race on some virtually traffic free roads, through some of the most beautiful countryside in Rutland and Leicestershire. In terms of course the swim will take place in Rutland Water Reservoir and wetsuits are likely to be mandatory. The bike course is a two lap course which is best described as undulating with a couple of tough hill climbs on each circuit. The run however is straight out and back affair staged over a predominantly flat course which involves a picturesque run through some of the local countryside around the lake and involves both tarmac and shale paths. Don't worry that you may go hungry at Rutland Water. Apart from the Cafes and Restaurants at the Visitors Areas there are plenty of picnic spots, as well as some excellent traditional country pubs in the area. Accommodation can be located by visiting www.rutnet.com where a full listing of camping, B&B's and Hotels are listed.

1900m Swim - 90km Bike - 21km Run
